Course Highlights

Open source investigations utilize free, unsecured websites to search for real world criminal activity. There is no trickery in open source investigations, it is not a way to get past usernames and passwords; it's simply a way to obtain what a criminal posts (names, pictures, videos, conversations) in open, and public forums. There is no need for search warrants, court orders, or subpoenas. Through a structured survey of available resources, law enforcement personnel will view, search and manage multiple open source sites and services in the search of criminals and criminal activities.
